IL PALAZZO one of Venice's most luxurious hotels, an 18th-century palace boasts an extraordinary location in Venice. Behind those arched lancet windows and Gothic façade are the rooms of the privileged. Rooms and suite, most with balconies or terraces, are decorated with fine fabrics, gilt mirrors, carved stucco ceilings and Murano glass chandeliers. The exquisite taste and personal touch of proprietress and native Venetian, Francesca Bortolotto Possati, is evident in the lavish detail and luxurious décor of each and every one of the spacious 44 guest rooms and 38 suites.

L' HOTEL 1940's facade was added to evoke the look of a docking ship, not only as a nod to Venice's renowned maritime history, but also as a contemporary contrast to the Baroque architecture of the nearby San Moisè Church. This serves as a perfect introduction to the hotel's interior, populated by stars, and intellectuals. The 1940's and '50's-style furnishings have lots of Venetian accents: 91 spacious guest rooms and 18 suites.

CASA NOVA is a 16th-century home adjoining the Bauer Hotel. Nostalgia and charm fill the 10 rooms and 9 suites with kitchenettes in a private residential nature of a Venetian pied-à-terre.

PALLADIO HOTEL & SPA on Giudecca Island, continues the philosophical traditions of its past by redefining the ideals of grace, beauty and character. The original property, one of Andrea Palladio's famous Renaissance designs, was a sanctuary that under the personal care of Chair & CEO, Francesca Bortolotto Possati, the building has been carefully restored and converted in hotel. The 37 elegant guest rooms and 13 suites are all spacious in nature and vary in design from a fresh, pastel-palette of color in cabana-inspired style to a touch of tapestry, and hand-crafted, antique interpretations.
